Color printing continues to grow in popularity as people realize the benefits color brings to enhancing communication. However, you might not be aware that solid ink technology from Xerox now makes it more attractive than ever to print in color.

Introduced in 1991, Xerox's proven solid ink color printing technology gives you the most value for your money. Solid ink produces brilliant, vibrant prints on a wide range of media. But the benefits go beyond color. In fact, when you get a solid ink printer, you may find your competitors Green with envy.

Save Money

Solid ink technologies bring the costs of Color printing down to the same level as black & white printing. This means you can enjoy color output without counting nickels and dimes every time you click print.

Save the Environment

Solid ink technologies produce 90% less waste than traditional laser printers. Instead of four bulky printer cartridges found in traditional color laser printers, these systems use simple blocks of non-toxic ink. That's good on landfill sites, helping you go green.

Transform the Way You Communicate

Communication in today's office continues to evolve...most recently, email has transformed the way we communicate. The reality is that we all use a combination of old and new methods of communication. Fortunately, new technologies make it easy to integrate the paper and digital world.

Multifunctional Systems

These innovative communication hubs provide printing, copying, faxing and scanning services in one unit. More than just an output device, these systems bridge the gap between paper and digital information.

Fax Servers

Now you can send faxes directly from your computer desktop and receive inbound faxes by email. Fewer fax lines are needed since everyone can share the same fax server.

Scan-to-Email

Deliver scanned documents directly to email recipients as a PDF attachment. You can even link to your corporate address book and require user authentication before emails are sent to enhance security.

Reduce Overhead Expenses

If you had an expense that comprised 2% of your annual revenue and was growing faster than your top line revenue growth, you'd want to know about it, wouldn't you? And if you could find a practical way to manage the expense and maybe even save money, it would be a top priority. What Are You Spending on Printing? Many companies are unaware of their true printing costs. Expensive printer cartridges are buried in office supply budgets and hide unmanaged, in supply closets, but repair cost and hardware acquisitions often land in IT budgets..

"Only pay for the prints you use. Let us manage your fleet of printers for one low cost per page. One call does it all.
